Santa Cruz Area Health Care Professional Agrees to License Revocation by the Physical Therapy Board of California

Physical Therapist Faced Accusation of Unprofessional Conduct

SACRAMENTO -- An Aptos physical therapist charged with unprofessional conduct involving patients has agreed to the revocation of his license by the Physical Therapy Board of California. Anthony Michael Delzompo has held a California physical therapist license since August 1996.

The board charged Mr. Delzompo with various acts of unprofessional conduct. Mr. Delzompo admitted these charges, if proven at a hearing, would be cause for discipline.

The decision to revoke Mr. Delzompo's license is effective Nov. 1, 2004. His license had already been suspended in April 2004 under a Family Code violation. The revocation of Mr. Delzompo's license prohibits him from working in California as a physical therapist.

The California Physical Therapy Board licenses over 19,000 physical therapists in the state. Anyone who wishes to file a complaint against a physical therapist or physical therapist assistant can contact the board by calling (916) 263-2550 or by visiting the board's Web site at: www.ptb.ca.gov.
